There should be punishments for ppl who wrongfully accuse others. Like let's be real, anyone who has watched Danya's stream, video, or just live commentary knows he wouldn't cheat online. Then we have a stupid monkey accusing him of cheating based on some random bullshit evidence, and he can walk away free while Danya suffered. I really want to kick Kramnik's ass at this point and I don't give a shit. And why do I care about Danya? cuz he is the only chess content creator/streamer I respect, well, except Fabi. He does not deserve a death at 29. Yeah I really want to kick Kramnik's ass.

If, if people actually tried to understand others, and not begin the conversation with "you need help" or "I think this is inappropriate and you will face the consequences if you keep doing it". Yeah, very inappropriate, and you know what is appropriate? When I cut all my skins from shoulder down to my thigh and die when all my blood ran out. Is this appropriate enough? do they know how much I want to ran away from the fucking investigation but have to stay because if I don't, they will blacklist me and have my name on the database. They also required a guardian because I just turned 17, and what did I do, tell me what I did, tell me why my name isn't on the database right now, tell me, plssss tell me. do they fucking know how many times I have asked myself at night, do they fucking know, do they fucking know how many times I just want to end myself, do they fucking know how close I was to it. if you don't know don't ask me, I'm tired of answering these questions and the worst you can do is ask people around me. I'm not innocent, nothing would've happened if I hadn't done anything. I brought this to myself. I'm not going to die tho, I mean I'm not scared of death as long as it is done quickly. I haven't got my phd yet and my citation is still 0. I also want to see a clear night sky.
