I was thinking about taking a break from here, idk, I wasn't feeling too well, like hating on everything, not just myself. I would actually throw up if I think about a random thing for too long.

I woke up around 7:30 am today and spent all day working on stupid hw assignments, this class is not real bruh like why do I have to do insane amounts of integrals, I'm not even a math major.

Also the snow, hmm, I don't hate it, but food trucks won't show up after a snow storm, which means I can't get any milk tea, which means I can't spend my dinning dollars on milk tea, which means I have to spend the rest of my dining dollars on other ahhh foods.

I really need to go to sleep right now.
