Einstein summation convention is not for human bruh, so annoying, like it's not even difficult, just a lot to keep track of.

Rather than adding lyrics, I might just post my top 10 most-listened-to songs at the end of each month in the Random section. Will also start updating my playlist since assignments are coming. I do remember I said something about a hairpin, but tbh I haven't even started it yet (it will be a long-term project, I will definitely work on it during the summer since I have more free time).

I also wanted to create some short animated films, idk it has always been one of my dreams lol.
