

February 11th 2026, 6:17 PM

---

Idk, I remember couple weeks ago I stated I was scared of death, but I really just want to die right now, I don't think I'm sad and nothing really happened. The only things that stops me right now are people who care about me, I really don't want to make them worry again but still tho, tired, not anything specific but just this world in general. A painless death would do, it's kinda funny tho that I don't want to harm myself for other people's sake.

but when everyone is gone or finds something or someone they could hold on to, I surely will die at my own hand, that, I can promise myself.