

November 16th 2025, 4:27 PM

---

My negative thoughts always form when I've been in a room for hours, and disappear when I go outside for some fresh air. Almost like the environment can really shape how I think. Sometimes I don't know which one is real tbh, and don't know which one to write.