I'm 20, and still dealing with ppl throwing random ahh tantrums at me. I'm not name dropping but some people really gotta grow up, it's not hard to ask me questions as long as it is reasonable. We literally decided on the first day that we will do our own analysis and only share the results, bruh is mad cuz I was talking about my results to another lab partner (I called bruhs name before I started sharing btw, but guess who didn't respond). Bruh also didn't attend the second observation session with us because of some random meetings with their PI, we decided our observation date a half-week prior and bruh had a half-week to prepare for the meeting. Yes, I'm pissed.
