I do get a weird feeling whenever ppl ask me if I'm in a relationship or not. I do not think I'll ever get into a relationship, you see, as ppl get older they learned a lot of stuffs, I'm still learning and accept changes, and the reason I don't think I can get into a relationship is, well, I don't think I can love anyone, like as of now, I love a lot of stuffs, but I could never put a "you" after "I love" for some reason. I think it is similar to gifts, not that I hate them, but the more you give, the less their value.

So, instead of saying something so important out loud, if you don't mind, I want to spend the rest of my life with you.

Started from that school hallway, and when you lied for me.
