I just want to make this clear cuz it still bothers me sometimes. Do not, again I repeat, DO NOT let any of my words affect your own decisions. You need to make a future for yourself that's based solely on what you want. And always, always, always have a backup plan just in case the first one doesn't work.

I don't love because of something, I love because I want to, and I will respect and support every one of your decisions.
