idk i think my mood is just fucked around deadlines. jumps up then down. im not finding an excuse for the stupid things ive said, and ill never get used to the feeling of constantly not recognize myself from few days ago. i believe overthinking will eventually kill me one day. need some sleep, more applications and deadlines coming up, i think ill focus, def not here again, not another crash out. goodnight.