I got my money!!!! I want to push the telescope purchase back. I don't want to settle for a smart telescope since doing the post processing (darks, flats, stacking) is half the fun of observing. The traditional setup I want will cost around 4k, so I'll just wait until I'm in grad school. I'm also free this week since my pi is at a meeting in Seattle. I really don't think any song can beat the outro of Smoking Behind the Supermarket with You, peak outro.

For some reason, I've always hated the idea of supergirl or a female wolverine. If a character died, just let the story end bruh. Creating a gender-swapped successor just feels like a way to keep milking the ip. Like why does it always have to be that a male character dies and then gets a female successor, just create more original female characters bruh. Like I just feel like it won't work, so let's say if supergirl ends up being a horrible movie, now people will start thinking like yeah I prefer the male version, like I just don't get it, why don't just create more original female characters if they really care about gender equality.
