2:10am now, yes i did walk to the nearest park around 1am to try to catch the perseids. the tennis court is still open thankfully so i dont have to climb that 7ft fence. I think windy lied to me, there were so many big ahhh clouds i literally could not see anything. i also didnt check the weather, rain was supposed to start around 2 so i just ran home. overall, umm, i didnt see anything, but i really do enjoy the time walking in the dark sometimes, and no pls dont do this, it's dangerous, the park is only like 5mins away so i can do it. Im actually trained to stay up that late, i still remember the time i spend in the dome last semester, well we cant really use our phones in order to prevent contaminating our data, so TAs just told us some good department 'stories'.
