I feel like cooking is my way of procrastinating the work lol. I don't know, I like cooking different things. The final products aren't always the greatest, but I mean I'm also making a lot of these dishes for the first time so. I don't really like sticking to one food and eating it every day, well, unless it's cheap and good, but even then I probably wouldn't make the same thing every day. I feel like food tastes best when I make it myself and of course, share.
