

---

Nothing i can do, not allowed to ask, not allowed to answer, not allowed to think, not allowed to love. Stuck in a cage i created for myself, hoping you can unlock it right now, not allowed, not know if you want to or not. Death, always feels better than guessing the answers, I dont even mind if the answer is no, but guessing is just worse than death. Throwing my question at myself, do you know why i asked you in the first place, my answer will always be the same as yours, now im in the cage, why, why do you think i can figure out. i dont mind, i dont mind going to hell, or die in the most painful way possible, if all my questions can be answered right now.